The suggestion of Senator McDONALD for governor is received with general favor.

It is irritating to have a crooked stick shoved up one even by the gentlest hand, and when the SENTINEL shoved a crooked stick up the merchants (?) of Columbia street we expected that some would wince. We were not disappointed.

The alacrity with which some of the alleged business men of Columbia street picked themselves out as the "barnacles, fossils and old fogies" alluded to in the SENTINEL's article of Saturday was the first bit of enterprise exhibited by these gentlemen during the present decade.

The republicans hope to carry Indiana next year by the wholesale importation of negroes. The scheme is a cunningly devised one, but it won't succeed. The more negroes the rads bring into the state to vote their ticket the more disgusted republicans will vote the democratic ticket.

It is rumored that CHRIS. BOSEKER will resign his position on the water works board. Mr. BOSEKER is an excellent business man and a leading citizen whose loss from the board would be deeply felt. He and the SENTINEL don't agree on all the details of the water works question, but for all that we freely concede his honesty and capacity.

AN ancient philosopher had the words "Know Thyself" placed over his doorway, regarding the knowledge of oneself as the greatest acquisition of the human mind. There are a number of gentlemen on Columbia street who without this reminder and without much study, have got to know themselves wonderfully well. When the barnacles, fossils and old fogies of the street are called for they respond with a promptness that savors of enterprise.

The city council will meet to-night and a stormy session is to be expected. We presume that the council will ratify the contracts made and thus, finally commit us to the Cook plan, which calls for hard water and very little of it, a useless reservoir, and a costly and extravagant system of pumping. Experience is the best as well as the most costly teacher, and some day our people will find out how they have been bamboozled in this water works business.

The SENTINEL is determined to rescue Columbia street from decay and desolation. As a great newspaper it has a duty to perform, and regardless of consequences it will discharge that duty. It is not a labor of love. It is a disagreeable thing to have to tell clever, good-humored and intelligent men that they have no enterprise, no public spirit, and that they are clogging the wheels of progress in this city, but it is important that they should know it, and the people, whom the SENTINEL represents, demand that they be told. The SENTINEL will always have the courage to discharge a duty, however disagreeable it may be.

ONE week from to-day the New York election will take place. The result is awaited with profound interest by the entire country. Both parties are working like beavers, and the result is doubtful, although the indications of democratic success are multiplying. There are local dissensions in both parties and the situation is so mixed that it would puzzle the most experienced political figure to make accurate calculations as to the result. The election of Gov. HOUXSON would be the triumph of honest government and political decency over a low, corrupt combination, comprising the Tammany crowd and the machine politicians of the republican party.

It ought not to be necessary for us to say that in our remarks about Columbia street we referred strictly to its retail business men. The wholesale merchants and produce and commission men, etc., of the street are wide awake and enterprising men, and the SENTINEL is not inclined to reflect upon them in the least. HUGHES & HAMILTON, WILSON & MOHLER, JOHN B. MONNING & CO., S. S. SMITH, S. BASH & CO. and others are not to be included in the category of fossils, and none of them should think of applying the SENTINEL's remarks to them. It is not they who have driven so large a share of the retail trade of the city away from the street, and they should be rejoiced if their retail neighbors can be goaded into the display of a little enterprise and the recovery of a little lost trade.

COLUMBIA STREET.
More life, bustle and well-enterprising if one can call it so—were exhibited on Columbia street yesterday, than had been seen on that once lively thoroughfare for years. The merchants and alleged business men of the streets put in a large portion of their time on the sidewalks, gesticulating wildly, and fairly foaming at the mouth whenever anyone had the temerity to mention the SENTINEL. The scene was an exhilarating one. The gentlemen could not possibly have been more excited if a circus had come to town, or a presidential election had been held. Such unfortunate attaches of the SENTINEL as chanced to appear in the neighborhood were bombarded vigorously, but bore the onslaught with perfect composure. The gentlemen had themselves interviewed, and having worked off their superfluous bile, doubtless felt better in the evening.

It was evident that the consciousness that the SENTINEL's article was true, was what hurt. With all the boasting about enterprise and business, etc., etc., which the merchants of Columbia street did yesterday, the fact remains that they are, with a few honorable exceptions, a set of old fogies and fossils who are twenty years behind the times. One of them boasts that there has been but one failure on the street. This may be true, and is not at all remarkable. The average Columbia street business man does not take chances enough to fail.

Now it will not or can not be denied that there are no retail firms on Columbia street which do as large a business as FOSTER BROTHERS, ROOR & CO., J. PIERCE, J. B. WHITE, OWEN, PIERCE & CO., SAM, PETE & MAX, A. S. LAUFERTY and others who might be mentioned, whose stores are located elsewhere. And yet these houses are of comparatively recent origin. When they were opened they had to compete with old and strongly established Columbia street firms, most of which have long since gone glimmering. The reason that FOSTER BROTHERS, ROOR & CO. and J. B. WHITE and the others have attained all but a monopoly of their respective lines of business is that they have shown enterprise, nerve and pluck, have made their names household words all over this section of country, and have pushed ahead, made improvements, kept up with the times, built up the city, and are now reaping the rewards of their course.

Now, everybody knows that the old Columbia street firms had the advantage of these men. They had their business established, they held a trade, most of them had capital and all of them had credit, and yet they have been left way behind in the race. They held the vantage ground and have surrendered it. They—with the few exceptions already noted—have let the grass grow under their feet. Few of them will deny that the value of property has depreciated more on Columbia street than on any other business street in the city—a fact which speaks volumes in itself.

Now, the SENTINEL is ambitious to rescue Columbia street from its impending fate. It wants to see these business men regain their lost ground. It wants to see them brace up, fill their stores with new goods, make improvements to suit the times and push forward with the vim of their younger and more successful competitors. The best thing these gentlemen can do is to keep their tempers, "acknowledge the corn" and take the SENTINEL's advice. It is not wise for them to get into a passion, call hard names, or make personal attacks upon the editors of the SENTINEL. Newspaper men are accustomed to being abused and don't mind it at all. The threat of some of these gentlemen to "stop their SENTINELS" has no terror for us. The SENTINEL has over 4,000 subscribers and more than 20,000 readers daily. The loss of a score or two of subscribers will neither make nor break this concern.

In conclusion the SENTINEL will say that it is trying to benefit the business men of Columbia street, in spite of themselves. It is doing a missionary work, and like other missionaries, is being abused and maligned. It printed its first article on the subject with the full knowledge that the Columbia street merchants would be very angry about it, and that some of them would doubtless fly into a passion and make donkeys of themselves. But "kind words butter no parsnips" and hard words answer no arguments. The SENTINEL has made no personal attack on these gentlemen, whom it freely acknowledges to be among our worthiest and most upright citizens. If they imagine that anything is to be gained by denouncing this paper or calling its editors hard names, they are vastly mistaken. We do not mind this abuse any more than the empty wind, and are determined, in spite of misrepresentation, to do all in our power to redeem Columbia street.

STATE POLITICS.

The New Albany Ledger-Standard is an out and out Tilden organ.

Ledger-Standard:
S. J. T. 1880 is the democratic trade mark.

Secretary of State Shauklin is out in a card disclaiming any gubernatorial aspirations.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: The result of the Ohio election again brings John Sherman and his boom to the front.

The Portland Sun thinks: It now looks as though David Davis will give Hendricks and Tilden some trouble.

The Vincennes Sun insists that the democratic party is confined to New York and Indiana for presidential timber.

The Kokomo correspondent of the Indianapolis Sentinel writes: The democrats of this city are solid for Gen. James Slick, of Huntington, for congress for this district.

The Franklin Democrat thinks it's settled. It says:

The child is born, and Grant is its name. That Grant will be the next republican candidate for president no one will doubt.

The Hartford City Telegram says: The Evansville Courier is opposed to Samuel J. Tilden's nomination or election. The Courier, like the Chicago Times, is democratic only when it feels like it.

The DeKalb county Republican, in an interval of temporary insanity, predicts that New York will give 30,000 republican majority.

The Mount Vernon Democrat has changed its style from a patent gut to an all home paper, both sides of which will be thoroughly democratic.

The Valparaiso Messenger presents Judge Thomas J. Merrifield, of that city, as a suitable candidate for Judge Biddle's seat on the supreme bench.

The Democrat (Indianapolis) says: Hon. Wm. H. English for vice president in 1880 appears to be gaining strength daily. The editorial in the Democrat of March last, forecasting this result, in another way, will be found the opinion of a Kentucky congressman.

The Pike county Democrat is solid for Hendricks. Hear it:

Thurman's presidential prospects have gone glimmering. Tilden's are much improved, while Gen. Hayes is a better bet than ever before. He can carry Indiana over any man living. Keep the boom booming.

The Indianapolis Journal says: The signs increase of a hard-money reaction in the democratic party in this state. The result of such a movement will be injurious to Senator McDonald. Sen. W. H. English and democrats of that class, and decidedly unfavorable to Messrs. Hendricks, Voorhees, Landers & Co.

The Indianapolis News, a republican sheet with independent tendencies, is disgusted. It grows:

The administration supporting, Cornell in a New York election, is a disgrace.

The Wabash Courier is quite favorably impressed with Gen. Hancock as the democratic candidate for president. Gen. Hancock would command the undivided support of the party, and we have been an ass of the opinion that a civilian and not a military man is needed in the chief office of our government.

The New Albany Ledger-Standard ejaculates:

No republican that wears hair can beat Senator McDonald for governor. No even the bald-headed members of that party dare tackle him in the gubernatorial race. Senator W. H. English is a good deal for governor, United States senator, vice-president or president.

The Chicago Times says: Wade Hampton nominates Bayard and McDonald of Indiana, Joe Blackburn nominates Tilden and English of Indiana. Ben Hill nominates Hancock and Hendricks of Indiana. There are no dissenters waiting to be nominated with somebody of Indiana. Whatever province shall furnish the head, it seems to be taken granted that Indiana will supply the tail.

The Franklin Democrat has proper complaint to make. Here it is:

The State Sentinel is very partial to Landers for governor, and publishes every day an article in his favor. It is not at all surprising that it is so partial to Landers for Col. Gray. Why this partiality in the State organ? The state organ of the party ought to be a platform of democracy with becoming fairness.

The Wabash Courier sits down on the Plaindealer and John Overmeyer at the same time in the following paragraph:

The Plaindealer has nominated John Overmeyer, of Knights-of-the-Golden-Circle notoriety, for lieutenant governor. This is a piece of John's fate. The support of the Plaindealer has made many an office-seeker find the dust, so to speak.

The New Albany Ledger-Standard is down on feminism. It says:

Had Senator Thurman refused to turn his coat and bow down to the national, he might have been as big a man in Ohio as Senator McDonald is in Indiana. Senator McDonald is big enough, politically, to spread from one end of this country to the other, but Thurman is listened to and don't spread over an ordinary sized Ohio county.

The SENTINEL's article "What's the Matter with the Democratic Party?" has been reproduced in a number of our democratic exchanges—among them the Decatur Democrat and Valparaiso Messenger—with marks of approval.

The Evansville Courier airs its views on the presidential question after the following manner:

The Washington Post of the 24th says that nothing is now left of the democracy of the country but a choice between Hendricks and Tilden, as they are the only two available candidates for the office next year. Although the Courier thinks it probable the contest will be narrowed to a choice between these two, there are many more candidates for the office, and a score of availability alone would make a strong race. There are McDonald, Voorhees, Slick and Williams of this state, Hendricks and Goodrich of Ohio, Palmer and Davis of Illinois, Church and Bayard of New York, Fairbank and McClellan of New Jersey, Hancock, Randall and

Wallace of Pennsylvania, and Bayard of Delaware, not to mention a score or more of distinguished southerners, any one of whom would give the office. Better any of the last named than that either Hendricks or Tilden should be nominated as a sort of compensation for their loss in 1876. The party owes neither of them anything. If it places the democratic banner in the hands of either it should be solely because of contempt for the voters for the office, and not any fancied wrong done them in 1876. The democratic party was outraged by the presidential steal, not Tilden and Hendricks.

A CONSPIRACY.

Sensational Developments in a St. Louis Life Insurance Case.

Insurance and professional circles are a good deal excited in St. Louis, by the presentation to Judge Wickham of the circuit court, by Thomas T. Statum, attorney for three policy holders of the St. Louis Life Insurance Company, of an application asking the court to order Silas Kent, receiver of said insurance company, to bring suit against certain persons named to recover money and property wrongfully taken or received by them, belonging to the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance company. The application is backed by an affidavit made by F. J. Bowman, an attorney, which alleges that in 1878 certain well known citizens of St. Louis formed an association and entered into a conspiracy to wreck the St. Louis Life Association in favor of the New York Life Insurance Company, but after taking initiative steps in the scheme they found they could make more money by turning it over to the New York City Life, and, therefore, checked it in favor of that company, at the expense of many thousands of dollars paid to different individuals for their aid and influence in the matter. One of the persons referred to in the affidavit, a prominent lawyer at the bar, was present when the application was made, and entered a vigorous protest against its being granted by the court. Spirited speeches were made on both sides and Judge Wickham finally ordered that the affidavit should be filed and referred to Receiver Kent, and that the latter make a report in the case.

There are now suits pending against two or three prominent citizens, other than those mentioned in this affidavit, brought by Receiver Kent, to recover money alleged to have been illegally paid to them out of funds belonging to the St. Louis Mutual Life, and the case seems to have grown out of the belief and positive assertion that a number of persons in this city have large sums of money which properly belong to this company. There also seems to be a pretty general desire, as well as demand, by the public press that the cause of the failure of so many life insurance companies within a few years past should be fully ventilated.

GRANT.

He Receives a Gorgeous Reception at Virginia City, Nev.

Grant had a big reception at Virginia City, Nev., on Monday. The streets were elaborately decorated and were thronged with people. The party was greeted upon its arrival with a chorus of whistles, salutes, firing of pistols and shouts. The governor and staff were on the train. Mayor Young delivered the welcoming address. Gen. Grant replied with a bow and a word of acknowledgment. He was escorted to a carriage drawn by six-in-hand. The military formed a hollow square about him, and with considerable display the procession moved through the streets, being about a mile long.

A Carson City delegation arrived soon after the Grant train and joined the line. Fifteen hundred school children of the city and Gold Hill were stationed in two rows on the "divide," and the troops in procession passed between. Capt. Sam, chief of the Plutes, stripped to the waist and painted, together with thirty braves, were a feature of the procession. At the salvage office the general left his carriage and reviewed the people in time. In response to persistent calls, the ex-president spoke briefly, thanking the citizens for the reception. He said:

It is impossible for me to make a speech on this occasion. I am not a politician, and I am in the habit of making speeches for the purpose of catching your votes. I can't talk that way. (Prolonged applause.)

Senators Sharon and Jones and Col. James G. Fair, were called for, and all addressed the people briefly, for which the crowd dispersed gradually.

A sumptuous lunch was served at 4 o'clock, after which the Mexican, Union and Confederate soldiers were received. A general reception was held in the evening, followed by a dinner.

THE suggestion of Senator McDONALD for governor received with general favor.

It is irritating to have a crooked stick shoved up one even by the gentlest hand, and when the SENTINEL shoved a crooked stick up the merchants (?) of Columbia street we expected that some would wince. We were not disappointed.

THE alacrity with which some of the alleged business men of Columbia street picked themselves out as the "barnacles, fossils and old fogies" alluded to in the SENTINEL's article of Saturday was the first bit of enterprise exhibited by these gentlemen during the present decade.

THE republicans hope to carry Indiana next year by the wholesale importation of negroes. The scheme is a cunningly devised one, but it won't succeed. The more negroes the rads bring into the state to vote their ticket the more disgusted republicans will vote the democratic ticket.

It is rumored that CHRIS. BOSEKER will resign his position on the water works board. Mr. BOSEKER is an excellent business man and a leading citizen whose loss from the board would be deeply felt. He and the SENTINEL don't agree on all the details of the water works question, but for all that we freely concede his honesty and capacity.

AN ancient philosopher had the words "Know Thyself" placed over his door-way, regarding the knowledge of oneself as the greatest acquisition of the human mind. There are a number of gentlemen on Columbia street who without this reminder and without much study, have got to know themselves wonderfully well. When the barnacles, fossils and old fogies of the street are called for they respond with a promptness that savors of enterprise.

THE city council will meet to-night and a stormy session is to be expected. We presume that the council will ratify the contracts made and thus, finally commit us to the Cook plan, which calls for hard water and very little of it, a useless reservoir, and a costly and extravagant system of pumping. Experience is the best as well as the most costly teacher, and some day our people will find out how they have been bamboozled in this water works business.

THE SENTINEL is determined to rescue Columbia street from decay and desolation. As a great newspaper it has a duty to perform, and regardless of consequences it will discharge that duty. It is not a labor of love. It is a disagreeable thing to have to tell clever, good-humored and intelligent men that they have no enterprise, no public spirit, and that they are clogging the wheels of progress in this city, but it is important that they should know it, and the people, whom the SENTINEL represents, demand that they be told. The SENTINEL will always have the courage to discharge a duty, however disagreeable it may be.

ONE week from to-day the New York election will take place. The result is awaited with profound interest by the entire country. Both parties are working like beavers, and the result is doubtful, although the indications of democratic success are multiplying. There are local dissensions in both parties and the situation is so mixed that it would puzzle the most experienced political figure to make accurate calculations as to the result. The election of Gov. ROBINSON would be the triumph of honest government and political decency over a low, corrupt combination, comprising the Tammany crowd and the machine politicians of the republican party.

It ought not to be necessary for us to say that in our remarks about Columbia street we referred strictly to its retail business men. The wholesale merchants and produce and commission men, etc., of the street are wide awake and enterprising men, and the SENTINEL is not inclined to reflect upon them in the least. HUESTIS & HAMILTON, WILSON & MUEHLER, JOHN B. MORNING & CO., S. S. SMICK, S. BASH & CO. and others are not to be included in the category of fossils, and none of them should think of applying the SENTINEL's remarks to them. It is not they who have driven so large a share of the retail trade of the city away from the street, and they should be rejoiced if their retail neighbors can be goaded into the display of a little enterprise and the recovery of a little lost trade.

COLUMBIA STREET.

More life, bustle and—well enterprise if one can call it so—were exhibited on Columbia street yesterday, than had been seen on that once lively thoroughfare for years. The merchants and alleged business men of the streets put in a large portion of their time on the sidewalks, gesticulating wildly, and fairly foaming at the mouth whenever anyone had the temerity to mention the SENTINEL. The scene was an exhilarating one. The gentlemen could not possibly have been more excited if a circus had come to town, or a presidential election had been held. Such unfortunate attacks of the SENTINEL as chance to appear in the neighborhood were bombarded vigorously, but bore the onslaught with perfect composure. The gentlemen had themselves interviewed, and having worked off their superfluous bile, doubtless felt better in the evening.

It was evident that the consciousness that the SENTINEL's article was true, was what hurt. With all the boasting about enterprise and business, etc., etc., which the merchants of Columbia street did yesterday, the fact remains that they are, with a few honorable exceptions, a set of old fogies and fossils who are twenty years behind the times. One of them boasts that there has been but one failure on the street. This may be true, and is not at all remarkable. The average Columbia street business man does not take chances enough to fail.

Now it will not or can not be denied that there are no retail firms on Columbia street which do as large a business as FOSTER BROTHERS, ROOT & CO., J. PIERCE, J. B. WHITE, OWEN, PIERCE & CO., SAM, PETE & MAX, A. S. LAUFERTY and others who might be mentioned, whose stores are located elsewhere. And yet these houses are of comparatively recent origin. When they were opened they had to compete with old and strongly established Columbia street firms, most of which have long since gone glimmering. The reason that FOSTER BROTHERS, ROOT & CO. and J. B. WHITE and the others have attained all but a monopoly of their respective lines of business is that they have shown enterprise, nerve and pluck, have made their names household words all over this section of country, and have pushed ahead, made improvements, kept up with the times, built up the city, and are now reaping the rewards of their course.

Now, everybody knows that the old Columbia street firms had the advantage of these men. They had their business established, they held a trade, most of them had capital and all of them had credit, and yet they have been left way behind in the race. They held the vantage ground and have surrendered it. They—with the few exceptions already noted—have let the grass grow under their feet. Few of them will deny that the value of property has depreciated more on Columbia street than on any other business street in the city—a fact which speaks volumes in itself.

Now, the SENTINEL is ambitious to rescue Columbia street from its impending fate. It wants to see these business men regain their lost ground. It wants to see them brace up, fill their stores with new goods, make improvements to suit the times and push forward with the vim of their younger and more successful competitors. The best thing these gentlemen can do is to keep their tempers, "acknowledge the corn" and take the SENTINEL's advice. It is not wise for them to get into a passion, call hard names, or make personal attacks upon the editors of the SENTINEL. Newspaper men are accustomed to being abused and don't mind it at all. The threat of some of these gentlemen to "stop their SENTINEL" has no terror for us. The SENTINEL has over 4,000 subscribers and more than 20,000 readers daily. The loss of a score or two of subscribers will neither make nor break this concern.

In conclusion the SENTINEL will say that it is trying to benefit the business men of Columbia street, in spite of themselves. It is doing a missionary work, and like other missionaries, is being abused and maligned. It printed its first article on the subject with the full knowledge that the Columbia street merchants would be very angry about it, and that some of them would doubtless fly into a passion and make donkeys of themselves. But "kind words butter no parsnips" and hard words answer no arguments. The SENTINEL has made no personal attack on these gentlemen, whom it freely acknowledges to be among our worthiest and most upright citizens. If they imagine that anything is to be gained by denouncing this paper or calling its editors hard names, they are vastly mistaken. We do not mind this abuse any more than the empty wind, and are determined, in spite of misrepresentation, to do all in our power to redeem Columbia street.

STATE POLITICS.

The New Albany Ledger-Standard is an out and out Tilden organ.

Ledger-Standard: S. J. T., 1880 is the democratic trade mark.

Secretary of State Shanklin is out in a card disclaiming any gubernatorial aspirations.

The Michigan City Dispatch says: The result of the Ohio election again brings John Sherman and his boom to the front.

The Portland Sun thinks: It now looks as though David Davis will give Hendricks and Tilden some trouble.

The Vincennes Sun insists that the democratic party is confined to New York and Indiana for presidential timber.

The Kokomo correspondent of the Indianapolis Sentinel writes: The democrats of this city are solid for Gen. James Slack, of Huntington, for congress for this district.

The Franklin Democrat thinks it's settled. It says:

The child is born, and Grant is its name. That Grant will be the next republican candidate for president no one will doubt.

The Hartford City Telegram says: The Evansville Courier is opposed to Senator Tilden's nomination for governor. The Courier, like the Chicago Times, is democratic only when it feels like it.

The DeKalb county Republican, in an interval of temporary insanity, predicts that New York will give 30,000 republican majority.

The Mount Vernon Democrat has changed its style from a patent gut to an all home paper, both sides of which will be thoroughly democratic.

The Valparaiso Messenger presents Judge Thomas J. Merrifield, of that city, as a suitable candidate for Judge Biddle's seat on the supreme bench.

The Democrat (Indianapolis) says: Hon. Wm. H. English for vice president in 1880 appears to be gaining strength daily. The net result of the election of March last foreboded this result. In another column will be found the opinion of a Kentucky congressman.

The Pike county Democrat is solid for Hendricks. Hear it:

Thurman's presidential prospects have gone glimmering. Tilden's are much obscured, while Hendricks's are brightened. He can carry Indiana over any man living. Keep the boom booming.

The Indianapolis Journal says: The signs increase of a hard-money reaction in the democratic party in this state. The net result of the election of March last foreboded this result. In another column will be found the opinion of a Kentucky congressman.

The Indianapolis News, a republican sheet with independent tendencies, is disgusted. It grows:

The administration supporting Cornell in New York is a pretty spectacle. The administration would have been a spectacle if it had stayed in Washington and attended to its own business.

The Peru Sentinel says: The Wahash Courier is quite favorably impressed with Gen. Hancock as the democratic candidate for president. The democratic party is good material for governor, United States senator, vice-president or president.

The Chicago Times says: Wade Hampton nominates Bayard and McDonald of Indiana, Joe Blackburn nominates Tilden and Hendricks. The Hill nominates Hancock and Hendricks of Indiana. There are other aspirants waiting to be nominated by the body of Indiana. Whatever province shall furnish the best, it seems to us that for granted that Indiana will support the tall.

The Franklin Democrat has a proper complaint to make. Here it is:

The State Sentinel is very partial to Landis for governor, and publishes every scrap it can lay its hands on in his favor; but it studiously avoids giving the notices of favor of Col. Gray. Why this partiality in the state organ? The state organ of the party ought to treat all democrats with becoming fairness.

The Wahash Courier sits down on the Plaindealer and John Overmeyer at the same time in the following paragraph:

The Plaindealer has nominated John Overmeyer, of Knights-of-the-Golden-Rose, lieutenant for lieutenant governor. This is a very bad mistake. The support of the Plaindealer is made manifest by an office-seeker but the dust is to speak.

The New Albany Ledger-Standard is down on fatism. It says: Had Senator Thurman refused to turn his coat and bow down to the flat cat, he might have been as big a man in Ohio as Senator McDonald is in Indiana. Senator McDonald is big enough, politically, to spread from one end of this country to the other, but Thurman is flattened out by the spread over an ordinary sized Ohio county.

The SENTINEL's article "What's the Matter with the Democratic Party?" has been reproduced in a number of our democratic exchanges—among them the Decatur Democrat and Valparaiso Messenger—with marks of approval.

The Evansville Courier airs its views on the presidential question after the following manner:

The Washington Post of the 20th says that nothing is now left of the democracy of the country but a choice between Hendricks and Tilden, as they are the only two available candidates for the presidency next year. Although the Courier thinks it probable the contest will be narrowed down to these two, there are many more candidates, who even on the score of availability alone would make a strong race. There are McDonald, Voorhees, Williams of this state, Pendleton and Grobeck of Ohio, Palmer and Davis of Illinois, Church and McClellan of New York, Hancock, Randall and

Wallace of Pennsylvania, and Bayard of Delaware, not to mention a score or more of distinguished southerners any one of whom would grace the office. Better any of these than the last named than either Hendricks or Tilden should be nominated as a sort of compensation for their loss in 1876. The party owes neither of them anything if it places the democratic banner in the hands of either it should be solely because of superior qualifications for the office and not for any fancied wrong done them in 1876. The democratic party was outraged by the presidential steal, not Tilden and Hendricks.

A CONSPIRACY.

Sensational Developments in a St. Louis Life Insurance Case.

Insurance and professional circles are a good deal excited in St. Louis, by the presentation to Judge Whelan of the circuit court, by Thomas T. Statum, attorney for three policy holders of the St. Louis Life Insurance Company, of an application asking the court to order Silas Pent, receiver of said insurance company, to bring suit against certain persons named to recover money and property wrongfully taken or received by them, belonging to the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance company. The application is backed by an affidavit made by F. J. Rowan, an attorney, which alleges that in 1873 certain well known citizens of St. Louis formed an association and entered into a conspiracy to wreck the St. Louis Life Association in favor of the New York Life Insurance Company, but after taking initiative steps in the scheme they found they could make more money by turning it over to the New York City Life, and, therefore, checked it in favor of that company, at the expense of many thousand dollars paid to different individuals for their aid and influence in the matter. One of the persons referred to in the affidavit, a prominent lawyer at the bar, was present when the application was made, and entered a vigorous protest against its being granted. Spirited speeches were made on both sides and Judge Wickham finally ordered that the affidavit should be filed and referred to Receiver Bent, and that the latter make a report in the case.

There are now suits pending against two or three prominent citizens, other than those mentioned in this affidavit, brought by Receiver Bent, to recover money alleged to have been illegally paid to them out of funds belonging to the St. Louis Mutual Life, and the case seems to have grown out of the belief and positive assertion that a number of persons in this city have large sums of money which properly belong to this company. There also seems to be a pretty general desire, as well as demand, by the public press that the cause of the failures of so many life insurance companies within a few years past should be fully ventilated.

GRANT.

He Receives a Gorgeous Reception at Virginia City, Nev.

Grant had a big reception at Virginia City, Nev., on Monday. The streets were elaborately decorated and were thronged with people. The party was greeted upon its arrival with a chorus of whistles, salutes, firing of anvils and shouts. The governor and staff were on the train. Mayor Young delivered the welcoming address. Gen. Grant replied with a bow and a word of acknowledgment. He was escorted to a carriage drawn by six-hill team. The military formed a hollow square about him, and with considerable display the procession moved through the streets, being about a mile long.

A Carson City delegation arrived soon after the Grant train and joined the line. Fifteen hundred school children of the city and Gold Hill "dividers" and the troops in procession passed between Capt. Sam, chief of the Plutes, stripped to the waist and painted, together with thirty braver, were a feature of the procession. At the salvage office the general left his carriage and reviewed the people in line. In response to persistent calls, the ex-president spoke briefly, thanking the citizens for the reception. He said:

It is impossible for me to make a speech on this occasion. I am not like your senators, who are in the habit of making speeches for the purpose of catching your fancy. I can't talk that way. [Prolonged cheers.]

Senators Sharon and Jones and Col. James G. Fair, were called for, and all addressed the people briefly, after which the crowd dispersed gradually.

A sumptuous lunch was served at 4 o'clock, after which the Mexican, Union and Confederate soldiers were received. A general reception was held in the evening, followed by a dinner.

This morning a woman was seen rushing down Calhoun street in an evident hurry. In about a minute she rushed back and inquired for a lost pocketbook. She just happened to find the man that had found it, and all he had to do was just to hand it out and hand it over, and she went on rejoicing.

The men at the colliery worked continually until 3:30 this morning when one of the fires in the engine running the centrifugal pump gave out necessitating a stop. The St. Joseph Water.

To the Editor of the SENTINEL:

In answer to the query of "Water Seeker" in yesterday's issue of the SENTINEL, I would say that Jesse L. considered his St. Joseph River source of supply to be illegal, as the extract printed yesterday proves. There is no question about the law of the case. The grantees from the state take all the state's rights to the water, and during low water season have the right to use through the feeder every drop in the St. Joseph River. And if need be they can "dam-n-it" sufficiently tight to hold their water and let Jesse pump air.

JACK'S JEOPARDY.

A Jury Finally Obtained in the Wayne Murder Trial.

The Work of Taking Testimony Begun.

The selection of a jury in the Wayne trial was resumed this morning.

The prisoner was brought into the court some time before the case was called. His mother, sisters and brothers soon followed. The depth of a mother's affection was amply shown in the tender manner in which she kissed her son on entering. The scene between the mother and son was truly affecting.

The court was called to order at 9:05, and Charles Fairfield was challenged for cause, he having expressed an opinion on the case.

When the attorneys took hold of Mr. Bryant, the janitor of the Odd Fellows' Hall, they struck a snag, and wasted about half an hour in trying to get an intelligent answer out of him. He was finally challenged peremptorily.

The crowd which had congregated in the court room maintained good order during the tedious process of selecting a jury, with the exception of showing a little impertinent occasionally when the questions of the attorneys elicited a particularly ignorant remark.

The jury was finally accepted was composed of the following gentlemen: David D. Boyer, Springfield township; Arza W. Scott, Marion; Joseph L. Harding, St. Joseph; David Swinehart, Abbot; Chas. Noyes, Jackson; Jacob Barkley, Marion; Wm. Howell, Lafayette; John Brown, Marion; Joseph Black, St. Joseph; Lewis Kidman, Monroe; Daniel Swanek, Pleasant; Frederick J. Miller, seventh ward (druggist).

They were accepted at 11:40, sworn in, placed in the charge of two bailiffs, and instructed by Judge Borden not to talk with any one in regard to the case, nor to read the newspapers. The court then adjourned till 1:30.

The court was convened at 1:30 sharp and the jury roll called. Mr. Hensch then opened for the state. After reading the indictment he proceeded to address the jury, informing them of the law in the case.

He stated the law in a precise and lucid manner, and said, incidentally, that it was the most unpleasant duty which had ever devolved upon him.

During the recital of the circumstances relating to the murder the mother and sisters of the murdered man were convulsed with grief and wept freely. Prosecutor Hensch finished his remarks to the jury at 2:05 p. m. and the witnesses for the prosecution were called and sworn.

Throughout the address of the prosecuting attorney the prisoner sat resting his head upon his hand and listening intently to every word uttered by him.

MRS. SHEEHY'S EVIDENCE.

Mrs. Sheehy, mother of the murdered man, was the first witness called for the state. She stated the facts in regard to her son's leaving his home in the morning and being brought home at night mortally wounded. Her testimony was immaterial, only showing the nature of and location of the wound.

MARTHA RAMSEY'S EVIDENCE.

Martha M. Ramsey was called, and testified that Rose Richards occupied a part of her house at the time of the killing; that on the night of the 4th of July, Em. Zink, Rose Richards and Rebecca Weist returned home late; that on the morning of the 6th of July she saw Em. Zink, Rose Overly, Rose Richards and Rebecca Weist leave their house at about 8:30 o'clock; she heard the three women talking in their part of the house on the morning of the 6th.

The question was asked as to what they said then, but was objected to by the defense and the objection sustained.

She testified that Mr. Munson had "buzzed" her in regard to the case.

EMMA ZINK'S EVIDENCE.

Emma Zink was called and testified that she was a married woman; that she had been separated from her husband three or four months before the murder; that she had known the prisoner three or four months; she was at the fair ground on the 4th of July; she didn't dance in the evening on account of sickness; John Sheehy and Rebecca Weist went into the woods, and she, Wayne and Rose Overly went after them; Rose Overly, Sheehy, Rebecca Weist, Wayne, and herself were all in the woods together; she left the party shortly after Wayne had left; Wayne, Rebecca Weist and Rose Overly left the grounds together; when they arrived at the gate Wayne showed the witness a knife and said he must have cut that man badly, and then showing the knife to Rose Overly asked her to see how sharp it was. Jack Wayne called at the house of Rose Richards the next morning and called out the witness and the other women and told them not to say anything in regard to the case as the man he had cut was dying at 8 o'clock, and as a parting injunction to "keep mum." Witness went to the fair grounds the next morning and assisted Rose Richards to climb over the gate; they went there to see Wayne, and not finding him went to the house of Jacob Weist, in the country, where they were met by the prisoner in the afternoon; Wayne ran and hid when he saw a buggy coming down the road; after Wayne returned he stated that he ran because he "didn't know who might be coming." Wayne then stated to Jacob Weist that he cut him deeper than he intended to, as he found an inch or two of blood on the knife the next morning, and also said that "many a man had been cut worse than that and hadn't died either." Wayne took a circuitous route in order, as he said, to avoid any one who might be coming after him. The prosecution asked who Wayne referred to when he said he "didn't know who might be coming." He had stabbed him so deep." Objected to by the defense.

Witness was told to tell whom she supposed he referred to. Again objected to and objection sustained.

She testified that she had lived with her husband five years.

In commenting on a libelous Judge Borden said that the divorce law of Indiana was a piece of heathenish legislation, and a disgrace to the state. She stated that she had separated from her husband four or five times, which created quite a sensation in court.

On cross-examination the fact was brought out that her step-father was what the prosecuting attorney graphically described as "a son of-a-gun."

ST. PETER'S FAIR.

Large Crowd and Big Attractions at the Academy Last Night.

State of the Voting—A Most Worthy Object.

The attendance last evening upon the fair at the Academy Music, for the benefit of the St. Peter's Catholic Church, was very large. All of the tables were liberally patronized and the sales of fancy articles and refreshments were large. The ladies were indefatigable in their efforts to please their patrons and succeeded admirably.

The various voting contests are attended with much interest. At 10:30 to-night the voting for the trumpet for the most popular fireman will conclude. The vote last night stood: Geo. Strodel, 14; Fred Michaels, 18; John McGowan, 2; Robt. Cran, 2.

A cane is to be awarded to the most popular city official. The voting will conclude to-morrow night. The vote last night stood: Frank Falter, 41; John H. Trentman, 31.

Thursday night voting for the handsome chair for the most popular clothing house will close. Last night's score was Sam, Pet & Max, 4; Owen, Pixley & Co., 1; C. O. D. (A. S. Laundry & Co.), 1; Enterprise, 3.

On Friday night (the last of the fair) the vote for the gold watch, to be given to the most popular beer will be closed. The vote stood last night: Centerville, 20; Rahkert, Lutz & Co., 9; Linker, Hay & Co., 8; Milwaukee (E. Hake & Co., agents), 5; Granger & Braids, Cincinnati (W. Lindley, agent), 3; Schuller & Gerke's Cincinnati (M. Humbert, agent), 3.

The receipts last evening were nearly $200.

The proceeds of the fair are to be applied towards paying the debt of St. Peter's German Catholic Church. The St. Peter's congregation is weak and feeble, and has never called upon the public for help. The Academy should be crowded to its utmost capacity every evening, until Friday night, when the fair will close.

WIFE NO. 1.

August Zerulla's Spouse in Germany Writes a Letter.

Which is to be Used in a Bigamy Trial.

Detective Westmuth has in his possession a letter written to August Zerulla from his wife in Germany. The letter is to be used against him in a case for bigamy which will, probably, be brought against him in this city. The letter accuses him of desertion and other equally criminal things. The writer, from the tone of the letter, is evidently a Christian woman and prays that God will protect her and her two children, three other children having died of cholera since August came to this country. She also in her letter expresses a belief that her liege lord has married since he came to America. It concludes by asking him to send her a ticket and $20 when she would at once proceed to join him at Port Wayne.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE OLYMPIC.

This popular place of amusement was crowded to its utmost capacity last night, and Manager Bartine presented a splendid bill. The olio performance introduced a number of first class artists in fine specialties, songs and dances, etc.

The great attraction was the thrilling drama, "Saved From the Storm," rendered by Miss Minnie Oscar Gray and Mr. W. T. Stephens, assisted by the excellent Olympic stock company. Mr. Stephens and Miss Gray are fine performers and their trained dogs—Bomeo and Zip—are simply wonderful.

Those who wish to enjoy a first-class evening's entertainment, at very reasonable prices, should go to the Olympic this week.

COOK'S CONCLUSIONS.

An Important Report to go to the Council To-night on the Water Works Question.

J. D. Cook will present a report to-night to the council in which he will submit three propositions of Bus, Simons & Co. One to furnish the water for pipe supply for $1,500 annually; one to furnish water power and supply for $2,000; and one to furnish the supply, do all the pumping, pay the employees, etc., for $5,000 a year. Mr. Cook will report against all of these propositions, and demonstrate, to his own satisfaction at least, that the city will make money by using hard water for supply, and steam for pumping.

WIFE NO. 1.

August Zerulla's Spouse in Germany Writes a Letter.

Which is to be used in a Bigamy Trial.

Detective Westrum has in his possession a letter written to August Zerulla from his wife in Germany. The letter is to be used against him in a case for bigamy which will probably be brought against him in this city. The letter accuses him of desertion and other equally criminal things. The writer, from the tone of the letter is, evidently, a Christian woman and prays that God will protect her and her two children, three other children having died of cholera since August came to this country. She also in her letter expresses a belief that her liege lord has married since he came to America. It concludes by asking him to send her a ticket and $20, when she would at once proceed to join him at Fort Wayne.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE OLYMPIC.

This popular place of amusement was crowded to its utmost capacity last night, and Manager Bartine presented a splendid bill. The olio performance introduced a number of first class artists in fine specialties, songs and dances, etc.

The great attraction was the thrilling drama, "Saved From the Storm," rendered by Miss Minnie Oscar Gray and Mr. W. T. Stephens, assisted by the excellent Olympic stock company. Mr. Stephens and Miss Gray are fine performers and their trained dogs—Bomeo and Zip—are simply wonderful.

Those who wish to enjoy a first-class evening's entertainment, at very reasonable prices, should go to the Olympic this week.

COOK'S CONCLUSIONS.

An Important Report to go to the Council to-night on the Water Works Question.

J. D. Cook will present a report to-night to the council in which he will submit three propositions of Bas, Simons & Co. One to furnish the water for pipe supply for $1,500 annually; one to furnish water power and supply for $3,000; and one to furnish the supply, do all the pumping, pay the employees, etc., for $5,000 a year. Mr. Cook will report against all of these propositions, and demonstrate, to his own satisfaction at least, that the city will make money by using hard water for supply, and steam for pumping.
